

When Timo Brandt enters a stage and plays the first chords on his acoustic guitar - soft, harmonious, tapping, rhythmic - you immediately feel as if you have been invited on a journey. When he then begins to sing with his melodic voice, he not only seems to sink into the songs himself - he also takes you into this special sphere. Funny anecdotes, which he tells spontaneously between the songs, loosen up the relaxation and create a pleasant human connection.

As a German singer/songwriter with English-language lyrics, he reaches an international audience in the indie folk scene. His albums "Grounded" (2018) and "All I Need to Know" (2023), released via Timezone Records, were listed in relevant playlists and received excellent reviews in the trade press.

"He can obviously always write strong but calm melodies that you want to sing along to and repeat without them imposing themselves as annoying earworms." (Magazine "Akustikgitarre")
